ESG and corporate compliance: Adapting to disclosure and sustainability requirements

Environmental, social and governance (ESG) refers to a set of criteria used to evaluate a company's performance beyond financial metrics, focusing on its impact on the environment, its relationships with stakeholders, and the effectiveness of its governance structures. ESG considerations have become central to corporate decision-making, influencing policy frameworks, investment strategies and business operations globally.

Key highlights of Kenya's Public Participation Bill, 2024

The Constitution of Kenya, 2010 revolutionised governance by embedding public participation as a fundamental pillar of democracy. This inclusive approach ensures that the voices, needs and aspirations of Kenyans are central to decision-making, from policy formulation to legislative development. Yet, for years, there has been no clear guidance for how public participation should be conducted.

Agriculture, food security, and the regulation of GMOs in Kenya

The past year has been an eventful one for food security matters in Kenya. Following successive failed rainy seasons, the country has faced one of the worst droughts in years. This has seen increased focus on the applicability of science and technology to address the challenge and help the country build resilience against climate change.

Video | The significant impact of our Pro Bono & Human Rights practice

As we commemorate Human Rights Day on Thursday, 21 March, one of the ways CDH demonstrates our commitment to the transformation of our society is through our dedicated Pro Bono & Human Rights Practice. We provide pro bono representation of the highest standard to deserving individuals, communities, NGOs and other organisations that promote human rights or the public interest.

Justice and Public Interest on the Mic - Pro Bono Matters in the CDH Kenya office

Since 2013, CDH's Pro Bono & Human Rights practice (Pro Bono practice) has been at the heart of our firm's commitment to making a real difference. Over the past decade, our Pro Bono practice has passionately championed the cause of public interest, providing pro bono legal support to clients in need. The decision to establish a dedicated practice was motivated by our belief in giving back to the communities in which we operate and in the power of the legal profession to spark positive change.
