

IMMIGRATION LAW

TAILOR-MADE SOLUTIONS FOR CORPORATE CLIENTS

At Cliffe Dekker Hofmeyr (CDH) our Immigration team assists international and South African companies with immigration requirements normally associated with the import of foreign skills.

The team consists of experienced lawyers at all levels from across our various practice areas that have specialist knowledge of the immigration laws of South Africa.

All of our immigration lawyers are trained and qualified in all aspects of employment law, which gives them the ability to offer a full corporate employee migration service involving all legal aspects in relation to recruitment, obtaining work authorisation, appointment, contracts, statutory compliance with local labour laws and dispute resolution.

Whether you wish to second an employee to a foreign entity, subsidiary or parent company or you need to import talent for a local business, our Immigration team offers tailor-made advice and assistance, at a fee appropriate to the complexity and scope of the instruction.

OUR IMMIGRATION SERVICES

We are able to assist with all immigration-related legal issues and consequent employment law matters, giving a comprehensive and insightful corporate and/or employee migration solution.

The section 21 Corporate Visa

In terms of s21 of the Immigration Act, a company may apply to the Department of Home Affairs for a Corporate Visa, which entitles the company to set out the required number of foreign workers it wishes to employ in specific categories within its business. The Director-General of Home Affairs will, after consultation with the appropriate governmental department, approve a set number of employees for the various categories a company requires.

On receipt of the corporate visa certificate from the Department of Home Affairs, the company may import skilled foreign workers who have the specific skills set out in the corporate visa application.

The s21 Corporate Visa is the most effective way of recruiting a large number of foreign employees with skills that are in short supply in South Africa, and for a specific project.

The team consists of experienced lawyers at all levels from across our various practice areas that have specialist knowledge of the immigration laws of South Africa.

We are able to:

- Advise corporate applicants on the South African income tax and exchange control laws that are likely to affect them
- Advise on own business visas, issued to foreigners:
 - Collaborate with tax experts within CDH
 - Assist in drafting business plans into the registration of a business in terms of the Companies Act and registering the business with the South African Revenue Service. In the event that an investment of less than the prescribed amount is made in the South African economy, we assist in obtaining a waiver from the Director-General of the Department of Home Affairs to reduce the prescribed capital requirement
